Overview

Under Minnesota law, individuals who are convicted of certain offenses are determined to be predatory offenders. Law enforcement agencies in areas where a predatory offender lives or works must disclose certain information to the public. The information is required to be relevant and necessary to protect the public. The extent of the disclosure depends on the level of risk assigned to the predatory offender. Level I is the lowest level and level III is the highest.

This bill amends the disclosure requirements when a predatory offender is assigned to risk level II to require disclosures to public officials who are likely to visit the offender's home in the course of the official's duties, including property assessors, property inspectors, and code enforcement officials.
