To the Members of the Housing Finance and Policy Committee,

African Career Education and Resources (ACER) is an advocacy-based nonprofit serving the northwest suburbs of Hennepin County and is an active member of the Equity in Place Coalition. We urge the immediate implementation of (1) HF 3424: extending Minnesota's pre-eviction notice to 30 days statewide, and (2) HF 1385: allowing appropriation of state funding for Statewide tenant education and hotline service to keep families in their homes. Evict ICE, not us. Help us prevent countless evictions that could displace families and cause irreparable harm to our community.

In just the past 30 days alone, ACER has received over 138 requests for rental assistance from community members who have lost work hours or employment due to increased ICE activity in their workplaces. We are receiving almost 14 times the usual number of requests we get in a month. Families are rapidly falling behind on rent, placing them at imminent risk of eviction, homelessness, and further exposure to enforcement activity. These are essential workers and long-standing contributors to Minnesota's economy, including airport service workers, grocery store employees, healthcare workers, and food delivery drivers. We also witnessed cases where family members were wrongfully detained for weeks and the $2,000 bail cost placed them behind on rent. Without additional policy support, we will be throwing our already vulnerable community further into displacement and chaos.

Take one of the rental assistance recipients for example. She is a single mom of four children. Her dad was the only earning member of the family and was picked by ICE agents, who was detained for weeks. Losing the main source of income, she was behind on rent. She received her 14-day eviction notice on January 7th 2026. It took her 30 days just to go from one rental assistance resource to another before she found us. It took an additional 15 days on our end to process her paperwork, communicate to her landlord and to push out her first rental assistance payment. This exemplifies how time-intensive it is for a family to secure emergency assistance in the current situation. Under a 14-day notice period, families like hers face eviction proceedings long before emergency assistance can realistically be secured. The gap between the legal timeline and the time required to stabilize income makes eviction not just possible, but highly likely. The existing statewide 14-day pre-eviction notice timeline is highly insufficient for families to successfully secure emergency assistance, negotiate payment plans, or access legal counsel. The current enforcement climate is deeply traumatizing families. People are losing their loved ones to detention and deportation. Extending statewide pre-eviction notice to 30 days helps families find their footing at such a difficult time while accessing emergency resources.

Additionally, we recently witnessed the City of Brooklyn Center attempt to remove their city's 30-day pre-eviction notice requirements to match that of the state (ie- 14-days). During a time of heightened enforcement and economic precarity, these rollbacks would have devastating consequences. In contrast, we witnessed the City of Brooklyn Park listening to the tenants and passing an emergency ordinance to extend their pre-eviction notice to 30 days. All Minnesotans deserve this protection. Extending statewide pre-eviction notice to 30 days provides uniform protection at a critical time to stabilize families without imposing significant burden on landlords.

The strain on community infrastructure is already severe. ACER—an advocacy and organizing organization, not a direct housing service provider—has been forced to divert more than 50% of staff capacity away from long-term policy work and small business support toward emergency rental assistance navigation, food access, legal referrals, and crisis stabilization. Families are turning to us out of desperation due to the lack of rental assistance and housing protections. Our biggest partner in supporting tenants with legal assistance and renter rights education is Homeline. We work very closely with the hotline service at Homeline to ensure our community members are following legal routes towards housing justice. The need for such hotline services is higher than ever, and sustainable state funding is urgently required to maintain these critical services. Without immediate action, the volume and severity of these requests will only escalate. We urge the committee to pass HF 1385 and appropriate state funding for statewide tenant education and hotline service

This is not only a housing crisis, but it is an economic attack on Minnesota, disproportionately harming immigrant and BIPOC communities. Many affected households include children, placing families at risk of long-term trauma and instability. Others include individuals with serious medical conditions, for whom homelessness would significantly increase reliance on emergency rooms, public health systems, and taxpayer-funded services. Preventing even a fraction of evictions reduces shelter costs, emergency medical expenditures, and court system burdens. Funding tenant education and hotline services and extending pre-eviction notice are significantly less expensive methods than responding to homelessness after displacement occurs.

We urge this committee to act swiftly and decisively. Minnesota cannot afford the human or fiscal costs of inaction.

Thank you for your time and consideration,

Sincerely,

To the Members of the House Housing Policy and Finance Committee

Equity in Place is a coalition centering the expertise and power of people of color to uproot policies that create racial inequity — and ensure our communities have choice, agency, and self-determination in where they live and what their neighborhoods look like. In the wake of the violent, unconstitutional Operation Metro Surge, we are witnessing catastrophic numbers of families facing eviction and homelessness: rent is past due, and Emergency Rental Assistance is needed now.

The federal attack on Minnesota is about more than immigration-- it is compounding an existing housing crisis. Minnesotans – citizens, refugees, and immigrants alike– have been attacked, detained, and separated from their families when leaving their homes to get groceries, pay bills, or open their businesses. Sheltering in place has become a necessity. Tens of thousands of families are unable to get to work safely to earn money to make rent, placing them at risk for eviction. If served eviction notices, many cannot safely get to eviction court or access homelessness prevention services. An eviction record will follow a tenant for 7 years.

Extensions to the Pre-eviction period from 14 days to 30 are crucial to giving tenants more time to prevent a tsunami of evictions and to ward off the disproportionate harm facing Minnesota renters of color, immigrants, and refugees. We Support (HF 3424), please give families more time to navigate their options to pay their rent and remain housed.

These necessary measures are just the beginning of the road to recovery for Minnesota. The drawdown of federal agents does not bring justice or economic repair. Minnesotan immigrants are hard-working, entrepreneurs, and drivers of our economy. We want to get back to work, continue living in the neighborhoods we love, and continue to make Minnesota the unique and beautiful place it is. We urge you to do everything in your power, as our representatives, to make it possible for our families to stay in place and our communities to rebuild.

Thank you,

Chair Howard, Chair Igo, and members of the Housing Finance and Policy Committee,

Today, I am writing in support of HF 3424, a proposed bill that would amend the notice requirements for eviction actions due to nonpayment of rent.

As a physician, I regularly care for children and adults whose health is directly affected by housing instability. Eviction and the threat of sudden displacement are associated with worsened chronic disease control, increased emergency department utilization, higher rates of anxiety and depression, and adverse pediatric outcomes - including missed school and developmental stress. Even short notice periods can create cascading medical and social consequences for families already living paycheck to paycheck.

Strengthening and clarifying notice requirements provides tenants with a meaningful opportunity to secure rental assistance, arrange payment plans, or access legal and social services. This modest procedural safeguard can reduce preventable health crises, decrease strain on emergency systems, and promote housing stability—an essential social determinant of health.

Stable housing is foundational to physical and mental well-being. Policies that reduce abrupt displacement are not only humane but also fiscally responsible, as they help mitigate downstream healthcare and social service costs.

Thank you for your consideration of this important legislation and for your commitment to the health and stability of our communities.

Sincerely,

Justice K Spriggs, MD
