Supporting Health, Wealth & Social Change with AFC

Mission & Vision

Founded in 2011 by three women, Appetite For Change (AFC) is a community led nonprofit that uses food as a tool to build health, wealth, and social change in North Minneapolis and beyond.

Systemic barriers make accessing fresh food on the Northside a challenge for many, distancing younger generations from food growing and preparation practices. Our programs bring community members together to engage with food in ways that strengthen the local economy, nourish generational knowledge, and strengthen social connection.

North Minneapolis is a lively, robust, and beautiful community where 75% of residents identify as BIPOC. The long-lived effects of systemic prejudice also mean many on the Northside experience employment barriers, chronic health disparities, and limited access to fresh food.

Through educational programs, cooking workshops, career development opportunities, policy initiatives, social enterprise, and food-based businesses, Appetite For Change weaves networks and builds community capacity to make lasting change.

Your Support

AFC requests $250,000 (FY2022) in Legacy Funds to support Community Cooks programming which will preserve the cultural heritage in growing and cooking food. These Legacy Fund dollars will help community members reconnect with their ancestral ways of producing and preparing nutritious, culturally relevant, and locally grown foods while supporting Minnesota farmers and communities.

Our Programs

Community Cooks | Free weekly cooking workshops designed for youth, families, and mothers. Participants prepare and eat delicious meals together, learn about nutrition, and engage in group discussion about social change. Community Cooks Meal Boxes bring the workshop to participants' doors, delivering locally-sourced ingredients, fresh recipes, and cooking tips to more than 400 households every week.

Urban Agriculture | Our seven urban farm sites offer space for community members and youth to connect with the land and their food. We grow over 10,000 pounds of chemical-free produce annually, supplying our cafe, meal boxes, farmers market, and other local vendors with fresh fruits and vegetables.

Youth Training & Opportunities Program | Youth engage in peer-led activities that aid in the development of leadership, organizing, and advocacy skills. Training takes place in the kitchen, garden, classroom, and even the music studio.

Northside Fresh | A network of community members, organizations, and businesses working together for food justice in Minnesota. By building relationships, sharing resources, and advocating for policies, we use the food system to create change in our community and beyond.
