The Honorable Representatives Paul Novotny and Kelly Moller
Centennial Office Building
St. Paul, MN 55155

Dear Co-Chairs Novotny and Moller, Co-Vice Chairs Feist and Witte, and Members of the Committee,

Dimation is proud to offer this letter in strong support of Minnesota House File 3753.

HF 3753 represents a forward-thinking investment in the safety and well-being of our students and school communities. By establishing a school safety threat assessment pilot program, this legislation prioritizes early identification of concerning behaviors and creates structured, team-based approaches to respond effectively and compassionately.

Rather than relying on reactive or punitive measures, HF 3753 is about prevention. It equips schools with tools to recognize warning signs early, engage appropriate supports, and intervene in ways that keep students connected to their learning environments and trusted adults. This approach not only reduces the likelihood of escalation but also strengthens relationships and builds a culture of safety and trust within schools.

As a Minnesota-based business, we are committed to building these systems right here in our own communities. We plan to engage and partner with local high school students in Shakopee, Minnesota to help design and develop this work. There is something powerful about students creating solutions that are meant to protect and support their peers. This approach not only strengthens the effectiveness of the system, but also builds ownership, leadership, and real-world skills among young people. This commitment is also deeply personal. I was given an opportunity early in my own journey because someone believed in me and invested in my potential. It is an honor to pay that forward by creating opportunities for the next generation to lead meaningful, impactful work.

Dimation believes that investing in prevention today leads to stronger, safer communities tomorrow. We respectfully urge your support of HF 3753 and the critical opportunities it creates for Minnesota's schools and students.

Thank you for your leadership and commitment to student well-being and developing the next generation of leaders.

Sincerely,
