Overview

The Crosswinds school serves about 350 students in grades 6 through 10 in a integration magnet school operated by the East Metro Integration District (EMID). EMID is a joint powers association of 10 school districts located in the East Metro area formed to provide collaborative integration services to its member school districts. Among other programs, EMID operates two schools, Crosswinds and Harambee. The EMID board has decided to stop operating these two schools and seeks to transfer the programs to other providers of educational services.

Crosswind's students come from EMID's member districts with the majority of the students coming from the St. Paul, North St. Paul-Oakdale-Maplewood, South Washington County and Roseville school districts. The Crosswinds facility, which has been open for about 10 years, was constructed through integration magnet school grants funded by the sale of state general obligation bonds.

The Perpich Center for Arts Education operates a high school for 11th and 12th grade students in Golden Valley. The Perpich Center is a state agency.

This bill transfers the Crosswinds facility and non-administrative staff from EMID to the Perpich Center.
