Advisory groups not included in this bill generally will continue in existence under the current laws, some of which provide expiration dates specific to an advisory group. Current law also provides for the Legislative Commission on Planning and Fiscal Policy to review all executive branch advisory groups every odd-numbered year. This bill repeals Minnesota Statutes, section 15.059, subdivision 5, which provided that some executive branch advisory groups expired on June 30, 2009.

Article 8

Conforming Changes

Article 1 of this bill repeals section 15.059, subdivision 5, which provided that some advisory groups expired on June 30, 2009. This article makes conforming changes, by striking language that refers to the expiration date in section 15.059, subdivision 5. For example, many sections of this article strike language stating that “notwithstanding section 15.059, subdivision 5” a group does not expire. The reference to section 15.059, subdivision 5, is stricken because this bill repeals that subdivision. The subdivisions repealed in the last section of this article all refer to the expiration date in section 15.059.
