Overview

The long-term facilities maintenance (LTFM) program provides most school districts with up to $380 per pupil per year in revenue for deferred maintenance projects. Under current law, an intermediate school district and certain other cooperatives may issue bonds for these deferred maintenance projects, and these bonds are repaid with transfers of revenue from the member school districts. H.F. 498 includes other joint powers organizations in this authority as long as a resolution has been adopted stating how the costs will be allocated among the member school districts.

School districts may lease instructional space. A school district's lease levy is limited to $212 per pupil, except that a school district that is a member of an intermediate district may levy up to an additional $65 per pupil for the intermediate's facility costs. H.F. 498 extends the additional building lease levy authority to all types of cooperative units (special education cooperatives, service cooperatives, education districts, etc.).

H.F. 498 is expected to increase school levies by about $1.4 million per year, and the levy increase would also be accompanied by a very small increase in the school building bond agricultural credit.
