Overview

This bill creates grant programs to encourage the development of residential real property, including:

- the greater Minnesota housing infrastructure grant program which awards grants to local governments outside the metro area to fund infrastructure development;
- the housing cost reduction incentive program which reimburses cities for fee waivers and reductions provided to developers;
- the Naturally Occurring Affordable Housing (NOAH) program which provides grants to NOAH owners to acquire and rehabilitate existing NOAH properties; and
- a pilot program for infrastructure grants.

This bill appropriates money to these new grant programs and to existing housing programs, including housing infrastructure bonds, the economic development and housing challenge program, public housing, and local housing trust funds.

This bill would impose an excise tax on corporate entities purchasing residential real property and authorizes cities and counties to impose both mortgage taxes and deed taxes.

This bill expands the powers of housing and redevelopment authorities and economic and redevelopment authorities acting as housing and redevelopment authorities to allow them to create workforce housing projects. It also eases pooling restrictions both to increase the amount of increment that a tax increment financing (TIF) authority can spend outside a TIF district and to deem funds spent on certain housing expenditures as occurring within the district.

Finally, this bill authorizes cities to require that property owners provide relocation assistance and notice of changes in property ownership to tenants in affordable housing units.
