Overview

Minnesota has provided support for full-service community schools under a few different models. In 2015, the Legislature codified the current full-service community school program. A full-service community school incorporates aspects of: early childhood services; academic support and enrichment activities including an extended school calendar; career counseling and internship opportunities; parent involvement and leadership; mental and physical health support; community involvement; and service learning.

Under the statutes, a qualifying school is eligible for a grant of up to $150,000 per year if the school is on a continuous improvement plan or has an achievement and integration plan approved by the commissioner of education. A qualifying site must hire or contract with a partner agency to coordinate services at the school.

The 2015 Legislature initially appropriated $250,000 per year for fiscal years 2016 and 2017 funding four school sites for both years, and the 2016 Legislature approved another $1,000,000 in fiscal year 2017 for grants to nine additional full-service community schools. No state-funded full-service community school grants have been awarded since that time.

In the fall of 2021, the Governor allocated $5 million of federal money from the undesignated COVID relief funds for grants to schools for full-service community schools.
