Overview

The commissioner of human services uses countable income, as defined by law, to determine both the eligibility for housing support under Minnesota Statutes, chapter 256I, and the benefit amount for housing support recipients.

For SSI, RSDI, and VA benefit recipients living in certain supportive housing settings, this bill would reduce the amount of their income that would be considered countable income for the purposes of determining eligibility and benefit amounts for housing support.

Summary

Section	Description
---------	-------------

1	Countable income.
---	--------------------------

Amends § 256I.03, subd. 7, to reduce the amount of countable income for SSI recipients living in certain supportive housing settings from 100 percent of the SSI benefit limit (less the medical assistance personal needs allowance) to 30 percent of SSI benefits received. Also sets countable income for RSDI or VA benefit recipients who live in certain supportive housing settings at 30 percent of the recipient's total income. Specifies the MA personal needs allowance does not apply to RSDI or VA benefit recipients who live in the specified supportive housing settings.
